Overall Exam Strategy

Bas Pass Hona Hai: Study these exact granular topics thoroughly: 'Perception (definition and role)', 'Leadership (definition and styles)', 'Motivation: definition, nature and styles', 'Vroom's Expectancy Theory', 'Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs', 'Organizational Politics: definition and measures to avoid', 'Organizational Effectiveness (including Likert's model)', 'Personality: definition and determining factors', 'Barriers to Communication', and 'Types of Groups / Group Structures'. Yeh 10 specific topics cover at least 40-50% of questions because papers repeatedly ask definitions + one long applied question on perception/decision making, motivation theories (Maslow/Vroom), leadership/styles, organisational politics, organisational effectiveness, personality, communication barriers and group types. Strategy: rote clear one-line definitions for all 3-mark items, and prepare 2-page structured answers (definition, components, 4 examples/implications) for the 15/22.5-mark repeat topics above. Focus on memorising exact wording of model elements (Expectancy–Instrumentality–Valence, Maslow levels, Likert systems, Johari quadrants, delegation factors) — examiners repeatedly expect those named lists. Time allocation: first 30 minutes for drafting long answers for perception/decision-making, Vroom/Maslow and organisational politics; next 60 minutes for leadership/styles, organisational effectiveness, personality and communication barriers; remaining time for short notes and proofing.
